A Great Big THANK YOU goes to Dr. Bob Bullard—from Cornelius Veterinary Clinic on talking with us about our furry hunting partners. He handed out a great Pet First Aid Kit sheet of items that should be included in a pet first aid kit. He talked about basic care and general guidelines for keeping your animal healthy and happy.

For most of us they are members of the family and not just pets. He provided a lot of great information about every facet of your pets health. Some was pretty intuitive like feeding your pet a nutritious diet. Unless your vet tells you to, you should not put your pet on these fad diets like Raw and Grain Free as they can have other unintended consequences. He also shared that the majority of skin issues are flea related and that your pets should be on a flea regiment from 10 weeks old through life. Allergies are very hard to diagnose because much of it is flea related as well. Ear Care is very important and harder to clear up completely once infection sets in. He says that people need better education sharing that their dog should have their ears washed once a week as a preventative. Lay your pet on their side flush it and massage it in for a minute, then wipe out.

Robert Bullard, D.V.M.
Hope Flint, D.V.M.
Jeff Schutz, D.V.M.
Angela Vinton, D.V.M.

Here is an interesting tidbit to think about, if you are going to a region where rattle snakes are, there is a rattle snake vaccine available that will give your dogs, over 30lbs, a real fighting chance if they have it when they get bit.

Thanks Bob for talking with us and answering our questions.

Cougar bill meeting slated

By Al Elkins, OHA Lobbyist
alvinelkins@yahoo.com

Advocates of better cougar management will meet in November to discuss options for legislative action. Attendees at this important meeting will include representatives from pro-hunting groups, ODFW personnel and legislators and staff. This group will look at what legislation has been introduced in the past and what sections of those bills, if any, might be used for a bill in the 2019 legislative session. We will share the results of that meeting in the next OHA Tracker.

Roadkill rules approved

The new rules on road-struck elk and deer were adopted at the Fish and Wildlife Commission meeting in October in Klamath Falls. Here is a summary of the newly adopted program:

- ✓ Deer and elk accidentally struck by a vehicle may be salvaged for consumption only. Intentionally hitting a deer or elk in order to salvage it remains unlawful.
- ✓ Anyone who salvages a road killed deer or elk must complete a free online permit within 24 hours of salvaging the animal. Antlers and head of all salvaged animals must be surrendered to an ODFW office within 5 business days of taking possession of the carcass.
- ✓ The entire carcass of the animal, including gut piles, must be removed from the road and road right of way during the salvage. In cases where a deer or elk is struck, injured and then put down to alleviate suffering, only the driver of the vehicle that struck the animal may salvage the carcass and law enforcement must be immediately notified.
- ✓ Sale of any part of the salvaged animal is prohibited but transfer to another person will be allowed with a written record similar to transferring game meat.

In a letter to the Commission, OHA stated we supported the new program, but added this caution:

"We are hopeful that ODFW and OSP will work together to ensure that those applying for the salvage permits are in fact doing so because of road-struck kills and not poaching. It is our recommendation that OSP and ODFW monitor this program closely to ensure that poaching is not occurring under the permit process."

Wolf plan stakeholder meeting saga continues

By Jim Akenson, OHA Conservation Director
Jim@oregonhunters.org

The first facilitated wolf plan stakeholder meeting was held in late August in The Dalles, where little progress was made, especially on "controlled take" or hunting language. The management representatives – including OHA, RMEF, OCA, and the Farm Bureau – all emphasized a need to leave this option in the plan.

Most of the four wolf advocate groups want hunting removed from the management tool box for the next 5-year planning period.

The second meeting was held in Salem on Oct. 9. It resulted in progress on reaching consensus on radio-collaring efforts, the definition of chronic depredation on livestock, and which agencies and staff could review depredations in the field.

OHA emphasized better wolf population monitoring, with number limits per management zone – which are yet to be developed.

The issues of controlled hunting and protecting ungulate populations will be addressed in detail at the next in-person meeting scheduled for Pendleton on Nov. 27.

OHA emphasizes need for better cougar control

OHA staff have done interviews for TV and newspaper articles in the past month, following the tragic fatal cougar attack in the Mt. Hood area. This fatality is the first documented case of a wild cougar killing a person in Oregon in recent times.

In speaking on this incident, we have been respectful of the family's tragedy, but also have taken the opportunity to express the importance of more effective cougar management, involving renewed use of trailing hounds for cougar hunting in many parts of Oregon.

In addition, new concepts for improved cougar hunting effectiveness are currently being formulated into an upcoming proposal for the 2019 legislative session. (See related article.)
